Military Preparations for Defence.

THE AFTERNOON EXECUTIONS.

[Correspondence, Monday, Nov. 28.]

[illegible] Sunday night the military confidently expected an attack, and did slumber with muskets. No disturbance occurred, however.

[illegible] Gov. Wise has [illegible] that the military forces are being so heavily concentrated.

Most [illegible] troops have arrived here since Sunday, including two Companies from Wheeling [illegible] about 1,200 soldiers in all.

A letter from Somerset County, Pa., states that large bodies of armed men are marching towards Virginia from the North Mountain, supposed to be on their way to Charlestown. These reports cause considerable excitement.

Accounts are coming in [illegible] the entering the gallows.

THE PROGRAMME OF BROWN'S EXECUTION.

CHARLESTOWN, Saturday Night, Nov. 26, 1859.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

As the day of Brown's execution approaches, the excitement intensifies. Richmond is contributing all her energy to defend the Commonwealth against invasion. Harper's Ferry, Charlestown is under martial law; a place of other events from here to Harper's Ferry. The citizens in the alarm that the entire population pass days of terror and sleepless nights.

The programme for the execution, as arranged by Gov. Wise, is substantially as follows: All good citizens will be requested to absent themselves from the [illegible] and about the scaffold; the troops, two thousand strong, will form an immense square; with the object of keeping the people beyond the reach of Brown's voice, should he desire to deliver an incendiary speech. If Brown's design to address the public, he must do it in writing. The politicians are having a jolly time at the expense of Virginia. It will cost the Treasury a quarter of a million at least. The men all draw rations and continue otherwise to regular military discipline. Among candidate men no second is found, or reported as probable or practicable. But the master, as you have seen, was frightened even by a cain.

There was a fresh sensation to-day. Dr. HAWKINS, special correspondent, and Mr. BUSSEARD, artist of Frank Leslie's Newspaper, having again returned, they were taken before the Commander and examined, but their documents saved them from trouble.

I visited on Brown this morning. He is cheerful as possible, and answers freely. He speaks of the interview with Gov. Wise, and says their conversation was interrupted; and he is now engaged in correcting the corrections to reports to which Gov. Wise gave currency. No one would suppose he was under sentence of death. Last assured he will die game. Barbour has an agent here, and has offered Brown $100 for his clothes and pike, and his certificate of their genuineness.

People have found out the dodge of the Tribune writing letters here and directing them to a Southern point, to be redirected to the Tribune office. We Richmond boys are having a jolly time, and if the Abolitionists will come here, we shall be glad to give them a reception. The watch is so strict that every stranger is obliged to report himself with credentials or leave. Public security is supposed to demand this. Reflecting men believe our delay is capital to the Republicans. To have prevented this, they think we should have killed the insurgents at once.

A VIRGINIAN.

VISITORS TO THE EXECUTION.

A second letter received at Baltimore, from Mr. PRATTS, announces that he has made arrangements to take 2,000 visitors so far as Baltimore, on their way to see the execution.

VISIT TO BROWN BY AN OLD NEIGHBOR.

THE RUN (Tenn.) Free American publishes a long narrative of the visit of Mr. M. B. LOWRY, of that place, to JOHN BROWN. Mr. LOWRY says:

I felt that it was due to the old man, and to my old friends, that I should go to visit him in his prison, and bear to him the salutations of his old neighbors in Northeastern Pennsylvania. I have just returned—leaving behind the misguided but honest old man, and I feel better for having seen him. It is this—given to me as the last and only charge between us: "Say to those [illegible] that I am cheerful." My time was up and I was invited to leave.

CONVERSATION WITH GOVERNOR WISE.

I wished much to see Brown again, and expressed a wish to Gov. Wise to call all night, but they assured me that Gov. Wise was well known, I might not be [illegible] in accordance with the advice of those [illegible] on the morning train for Harper's Ferry. On the train I met Gov. Wise. In a previous conversation [illegible] Brown was transferred an insane man [illegible] in Pennsylvania. I said that he was [illegible] and honest. In the cars I asked the Governor if he would commute the sentence of Mr. Brown. He said: "I have commuted the sentence of [illegible] Virginia would acquiesce. [illegible] Why," said he, "Gov. Brown [illegible] I doubt whether he would [illegible]." He spoke in indignant terms of the editor of the Herald of Freedom, characterizing [illegible] as a fiend, [illegible] revengeful, unprincipled [illegible] I remarked that I regretted to hear the report of C. W. Brown in such terms, as he was an acquaintance of mine, and had been [illegible] Brown's [illegible]. His answer was—"Mr. Lowry, you are mistaken if you suppose that anything that George Washington knows doubt say [illegible] Brown." During our conversation, the train stopped (where Gov. Wise was [illegible]) and I made a [illegible] Brown [illegible] Gov. Wise [illegible] Brown [illegible] said: "It is terrible thing."

And here, as I parted with him, I offered him I would see his wife, if possible, he requested to me—"Tell them without that I am cheerful." My time was up and I was invited to leave.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

Puddled Steel—An Improved Truck—Traction Engines—Steam on Canals, &c.

PUDDLED STEEL is being extensively tried in England for steam boilers. The best qualities are as easily worked as copper, and may be one-quarter to one-third thinner and lighter than iron. So far the experiment is successful in every particular, except that some makes of steel plates split and peel under the intense action of fire—others do not to an objectionable extent. This difficulty is being gradually overcome as the process is developed. [illegible] three pounds of [illegible] per square foot. The cost of making puddle steel [illegible] is nearly the same. Wrought [illegible] cast [illegible] forgings. Cast steel is made by melting carbon in wrought iron. But as making puddle steel has passed expensive process it [illegible] the cost. Iron is partially, not wholly decarbonized in the puddling furnace, that is, when the [illegible] process is stopped, leaving a [illegible] pure as cast steel, and dependent [illegible] working for its value. Such is the general nature of puddle steel, but its economy [illegible] requires that intimate knowledge of the [illegible] of the metal which old practitioners alone possess, and which they hitherto have kept jealously to themselves.

The [illegible] Railway in England, as [illegible] adding the [illegible] and turning on a pivot or king-bolt, the two axletree of a wagon. Although such a truck moves round a curve more easily than if it were rigidly parallel to other drafts, and did not use the king-bolt, yet its action is harsh, from the fact of its wheels are nearer together on one side than on the other when moving on a straight track. With the Bissell improvement, the truck does not turn on its own king-bolt, but rather, [illegible] under the engine, being held by a radius-rod attached to a pin half way between the front axle of truck and the forward driving-wheel. Thus all the axles of the engine are made nearly radial to whatever curve the train traverses, wheels are less likely to run off, and more with less friction, shorter curves may be passed, and the flanges wear less. The chief improvement is, however, that one pair of wheels may be used instead of two pairs, which are necessary to the old truck. Another incidental and considerable advantage, is, that with a single shaft, the bearing of the engine is thrown further forward, and the weight necessary to adhesion is thrown further back upon the driving-wheels.

ROTARY WAGONS, or traction engines on BOVDELL'S plan, are considerably used in England, India and South America for drawing loads over soft and swampy ground where animals mire and cannot walk with their feet off. The driving wheels are furnished with an endless railway—that is, the tire of the wheel consists of a series of large flat planks fastened in their centres to the rim of the wheel, which lays them down and picks them up as it revolves. Thus one plank, of such area that it cannot sink into the mire is always down, under the wheel, as it were, and constitutes the adhesive and bearing surface of the wheel till the next one comes down. These wagons, however, cannot run fast, and are not economical or necessary on good roads, where the ordinary tire affords sufficient adhesion and bearing.

Boiler explosions are believed by persons who have spent the most time in investigating the subject, to be in most cases the result of bad construction or bad management; that is to say, the bollers are too weak or the pressure is too high. Most overpressure relieves itself by simply tearing a small opening in the vessel, without doing further damage. This is always the case with air or cold water, under hydrostatic pressure, and because it is not the case with steam-boilers, people imagine all sorts of reasons and electrical phenomena. The fact that the water is hot when overpressure makes its simple rupture, accounts for the frightful results of explosions, as follows: Water will change into steam under a temperature of 212 degrees in the open air, but under a pressure of 75 lbs. 325 degrees of heat are necessary to make it into steam. If, therefore, the pressure of 75 lbs. is suddenly removed, the water being too hot to remain water under a very much lower pressure, must or it will flash into steam, and the concussion of this sudden and enormous steam generation constitutes the work of destruction which commenced in a simple harmless rupture. That the heat of red hot plates will make steam enough to explode a boiler is impossible, since there is not sufficient heat in the plates that would be exposed to the fire by low water, to make steam enough to sensibly raise the pressure. Explosions attributed to low water arise from some other cause than the simple heat of the plates. They cannot, as we have before shown, arise from hydrogen gas, and no other known gas can be formed. The cause of a few explosions seems inexplicable in the present state of the science. That most of them occur from careless construction and management is absolutely certain. This at least can be prevented.

FRICTIONAL GEARING is coming into successful use in Great Britain for all purposes, from small machinery up to the driving of the screws of steamships. Instead of one wheel driving another by the intersection or "meshing" of the "cogs" or teeth on their rims, the adjacent surfaces or faces of the wheels are grooved lengthwise, or in the direction of their motion, like the rolls of a rolling-mill. These grooves are V shaped, and the friction of the Vs of one wheel against the sides of the Vs of the other wheel is so great that the one drives the other, as in the case of cogs. The friction of the journals of the shafts is somewhat greater than in the case of toothed gearing, but in other respects the frictional wheels seem to work most advantageously. The "back lash," or rattle of teeth, especially when worn, is prevented. The chief difficulty is in first cost. The cutting of the teeth of gearing involves the application of abstruse mathematical principles; each side of each tooth is shaped to an epicycloidal curve, varying with the diameters of the wheels. The machines and processes required are expensive and numerous, especially in cases of beveled gearing. But the application of frictional gearing is the most [illegible] work of the thrashing-[illegible] is supposed by a great many [illegible] as well as by too large a proportion of those who pretend to depend for its success [illegible] the delay of this great improvement [illegible] to the impossibility of constructing a canal-boat and that the chief objection to locomotives is their throwing up waves which will wash down the banks. Having the same principle of steamboat, just as it is however, we find no fatal and necessary objections of this kind. At any given speed the simple waves of boats, however propelled, raise the same swell. If they are so, as it is said they seem, they must and can be shaped on the same principle, so as to raise no waves at all. The power of itself will throw an immense wave [illegible] the banks. State attempts have been made to construct a canal-boat on Lake Erie, and [illegible] failure. Without a good [illegible] at the bottom, the [illegible] propeller boat will sink right down on the bottom, [illegible] water from under it, and [illegible] in a narrow canal [illegible] the [illegible] propeller. Without a good width, even the [illegible] propelled from the towpath is greatly reduced. On the Regent's Canal, a boat, which moved [illegible] in a canal three times its width [illegible] itself a mile and a half with the [illegible] only a few feet wide, then itself. The [illegible] of our canals is at the bottom of this question. Present appearances indicate that the improvement of steam navigation, slow as it is, will more than keep pace with the improvements of canals. Steam on canals is a thing not to be despised. POLITICS IN OHIO.

A writer in the [illegible] Times, some days since in urging the defeat of the election for United States Senator, had [illegible] which I have use as a text. The article, signed a "Republican," was so accurate, and so truly conservative, that he deserves some notice:

"In 1857 Gov. CHASE was again nominated, and after a bitter contest was elected by a majority of 1,503 votes, the residue of the State ticket having about 10,000 majority, and the Democracy obtaining a large majority in both branches of the Legislature. Again 9,203 votes were thrown away upon a third candidate for Governor.

"This partial defeat taught the Republicans the necessity of ridding themselves of the imputation of fanaticism and extravagance, which was fast sinking them into a hopeless minority.

"Hence the Republican State Convention of 1858 put Judge PACK at the head of the ticket. He resided in Scioto County, the extreme southern, and most conservative portion of the State.

"He had never before acted with the Republican Party. Gov. CORWIN now for the first time enlisted in the Republican Party, and exerted himself manfully in support of the ticket."

I should be glad to know who the "residue of the State Ticket," which got 15,000 majority, were. The truth is, there was no such "residue." It is a myth. The entire ticket was a pure Republican, and was elected, the lowest having 1,001 majority, and the highest 1,839; with the exception of the candidate for Public Works, who was defeated, by a local defection in Cincinnati. Gov. CHASE had a majority of 1,481—the average of the ticket. The election had nothing to do with either fanaticism or conservatism, there being a heavy falling off of votes, mostly on the Republican side. The majority in Ashtabula County fell off 1,200 votes. I wonder if the writer referred to will attribute that to an increase of conservatism. If the election had any moral it was to prove the great personal weight and influence of Governor CHASE, who carried on the canvass almost alone. I may here say, that the political position of Governor CHASE is as conservative as that of any person I know, unless it be an exception, that he thinks as I think, and as the great body of Northern people have always thought, (and I may add, till the year 1834, the most enlightened of Southern statesmen,) that freedom is national and slavery local.

The writer seems to intimate that Judge PACK had been in some sort bought over to the Republican Party. I should like to know when he ever voted the Democratic ticket? or, when he was ever known to be Pro-Slavery? The truth is, Judge PACK, an able lawyer and good citizen, had been many years a Judge and refrained from active politics. The Republicans showed both good sense and kind feelings in selecting a man who, while not a partisan, was a good Judge.

In relation to Gov. CORWIN, it was rumored, and I believe correctly, that he either voted, or said he would have voted for FREMONT in 1856. There is no question he would have been actively in the field for FREMONT but for the embarrassment of having been in FILLMORE'S Cabinet. That fact came near destroying him politically. The district Mr. CORWIN represents is thoroughly and invincibly Republican, and small favor will it show to any man who dallies with the Delilah of Slavery. I like—as who does not?—the man who, with admirable bonhomie and keen wit, pours forth some of the finest specimens of American eloquence, and whose moral courage has been proved by his great and beautiful speech on the Mexican War. I shall look with great interest to his course in Congress. I think you will find that he takes pains to study and bring out effectively the elements of the financial questions, which will necessarily be the earliest and most important questions before Congress. He will vote invariably with the Republicans, but will take most interest in questions of public economy and administration.

The writer of the Tribune might have mentioned another gentleman, who, for the first time, took an active part with the Republicans—ROBERT C. SCHENCK, of Dayton. Mr. SCHENCK was, in former times, an active, zealous, and brilliant Whig. He was in the Legislature of 1841-'42, when the Whig members resigned their seats—an operation with which our Southern friends threaten us, (but which would by no means break our hearts)—and which was not very successful. CORWIN lost his election as Governor, and the man who has since figured in Kansas, as the most contemptible of Administration tools, was elected—WILSON SHANNON. Mr. SCHENCK was afterwards in Congress, and Minister to Brazil, in which capacities he acquitted himself with signal success. He has been retired from politics till this campaign, in which he has done valuable service.

There is another man in Ohio who is as well abused as anybody you can find, and as much talked about as men who have much greater talents and position in public life,—I mean JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS. It is a remarkable fact that so few people really understand GIDDINGS. He was never an Abolitionist, in a political sense. He was elected to Congress near thirty years since, as a Whig, and has been a Whig ever since, till the formation of the Republican Party. About twenty-five years since the Democratic Party in Congress (ruled then, as it has been ever since by Southern politicians,) rashly and absurdly expelled GIDDINGS from the House for some ultra and heedless speech. The consequence was, his District reelected him by 5,000 majority, and kept him in for twenty years. In all that time he was a Whig, voting steadily with the Whig Party. His views are undoubtedly ultra; but they are such as he has a perfect right to hold. The language held by many Southern papers and orators, and I might add, by two or three in your City of New-York, in reference to GIDDINGS and others, is the very essence of folly, if not madness. Have they yet to learn that an American citizen has the right to speak, print and vote as he pleases? Do they think that this is a country where Slavery, like the Inquisition, can make an auto-de-fé of those who oppose it? If treason is to be punished, we shall begin in a latitude considerably south of this. I shall take the liberty of advising the gentlemen who are airing the vocabulary of treason—whether in the Fifth-avenue of New-York or on Virginia plantations—to be a little careful in denouncing the people of the Northwest. We are thoroughly Anti-Slavery, and stand in no particular awe of the Gods worshipped by the negro-holders. We are amiable, but not too amiable when insulted by braggarts or blockheads.

A VETERAN OBSERVER.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICANISM.

The Kentucky Republican Convention—Cassius M. Clay—His Covington Speech.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

LOUISVILLE, KY., Friday, Nov. 18, 1859.

It is a fact that hard by Newport, in Covington, some of our Republicans did assemble in State Convention on the 16th, transacted their business without molestation, and adjourned to meet again in Richmond, Madison County, next June. I am gratified to hear it. It shows there is still some respect for law and order even in that republican neighborhood.

The Convention resolved to stand by the Philadelphia platform of 1856; in favor law and order, State sovereignty, national supremacy in the Territories, the paramountcy of the Constitution, and the preservation of the Union; to denounce any course savoring of nullification and illegal interference with slavery from any quarter; to uphold freedom of speech and liberty of the Press; and to hold Slavery, like all other policies, open to popular discussion, and subject to the constitutionally expressed will of popular majorities, actuated by the liberal and progressive spirit of the age.

Aside from this national, patriotic aspect, the general tone of these resolutions is commendable in the eyes of very many Democrats. CASSIUS M. CLAY was their author.

Mr. CLAY, as a politician, is not liked in Kentucky. His Anti-Slavery views he has always been considered radical, and has never been established by any large number of his fellow-citizens. Undoubtedly he has often been inconsiderate and rash, and is so in some respects, but many of the charges against him of him from mere envy, [illegible] represented him. [illegible] Where [illegible] against him more than once, in his career as editor, in Lexington, he was mobbed, and his press and paper broken up—the most tyrannical violence was brought to bear against him. He was said to have allowed no rebellious [illegible] a convention against his nomination, which was called to order by a committee of his friends, who, with a rush, carried the hall, and nominated a ticket for the convention to ratify—which it did. Such is the general purport of rumors. [illegible]

[illegible] speech of such a man is dangerous. Yet, at another [illegible] pronounce him the most honest out-spoken man alive. His intents are clearly revealed. He would scatter firebrands among our slaves, incite them against their masters, and then [illegible] slavery by a wholesale massacre of the whites. He is laughed with forwardness, [illegible] overthrow Slavery everywhere, [illegible] law and justice! Not at all! [illegible] heard upon his lips. There is no Kentuckian [illegible] more abused, slandered, reviled and maltreated, or has borne up under it more heroically. A braver man than Cassius M. CLAY never trod Kentucky soil. There is much of the old Roman in him, and I don't wonder he praises the Roman qualities of old Captain Brown. Of course, he has gigging faults, and he has committed divers indiscretions which have not always served him well. His temper [illegible] to render him unfit for a Republican or a Freesoil movement in Kentucky. It is too fiery. Opposition often makes him the more impracticable and headlong. He appears to feel himself goaded on to acts of desperation, but still not to what his foes brand him with. Certainly, he has always deserved much more credit than they give him. And, I believe, his course for several years has been somewhat more discreet than formerly. In some of his partisan speeches he makes some very sensible remarks.

Mr. CLAY has often addressed his fellow-citizens at imminent peril to his life. He did so in this city, the Fall of 1856, at the height of the Fremont and Anti-Fremont fever. His enemies swore he should not speak here. But, as a Kentucky Republican Elector, he stood up, at the appointed day and hour, before an infuriated crowd, and demanded to be heard for his cause. They drowned his voice, and tried to put him down. He would have been torn to pieces, but for his reputation as a fighter and his dauntless bearing. The blood-hounds dared not touch the lion-hearted Cassius! He at last cowed them, and delivered his address. Some of his points, I remember, were strong. He argued against the Institution's economic and social evils, on the same grounds so often presented to us by HENRY CLAY, late Senator UNDERWOOD, Judges NICHOLAS and ROBERTSON, Hon. W. P. THOMPSON, and others. So far was his Louisville speech commendable, and so far, also, is his Covington speech, of the 16th instant.

In this speech before our Republican Convention, he submitted to us some wholesome truths. Much that he said accorded with the liberal spirit of his resolutions, divested of their "Republican" and sectional bearing. He doubtless spoke too decidedly and bitterly against Slavery and its "Democratic" partisans; but he adduced some matter-of-fact arguments patent to everybody's common sense. Though the majority of Kentuckians may not long sustain any party in any further Federal intervention about Slavery, Mr. C. M. CLAY'S reasons for constitutional home intervention against the advance or perpetuation of home Slaveryism are cogent, and cannot be too much pressed upon their attention. While he denies that he would, with fire and sword, lord it over the property and persons of our slaveholding minority, (only one in twenty, according to the census of 1850,) he insists that the constitutional rights of our non-slaveholding majority, also, shall be respected, and that their interests, too, shall have some weight in the affairs of our State. He is for entire popular and individual freedom in Kentucky; and he says this freedom cannot be protected and secured in the Territories without Federal "Republican" intervention. The country at large will hardly sustain his anti-Slavery Federalism; but it will recho his voice against Pro-Slavery Federalism. Besides, Mr. CLAY appeals to the ingenuous young men of Kentucky to show their mettle and assert their independence—to shake off the slavish influences which encompass them, and fight like heroes against the tyranny of "Democratic" and all party Pro-Slaveryism. In my humble opinion, Kentuckians of the rising generation and early manhood would do well to heed his advice in this respect, and persistently contend for the ultimate release of their State from the thraldom of domestic and partisan Slavery.

Mr. CLAY'S closing declaration of loyalty to this Union is cordially approved by the great majority of his fellow-citizens. With the spirit and emphasis of Gen. JACKSON, he swears that "By the Eternal! this Union, through all the trials which await, must and shall be preserved!"

Affairs in Mexico.

THE RECENT INTELLIGENCE FROM THAT COUNTRY.

NEW-YORK, Monday, Nov. 28, 1859.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The TIMES, which is universally regarded as the most reliable authority upon Mexican affairs, cannot always be expected to correct the errors of telegraphic reporters, or to be accountable for the misstatements of its numerous and distant correspondents. It does well, however, and displays more zeal, and a greater amount of knowledge of the actual condition of Mexico than any other paper in the country. Still, owing to the want of reliable communication with remote portions of the Republic, you are frequently made to publish much that is not true.

Nearly every day the papers devote more or less space to the "News from Mexico." I have been a resident of that country, off and on, for more than ten years, and have just returned. I am acquainted with the names of the public men; am familiar with the causes of her present troubles, and profess to know a little of its geography and typography. Yet I confess my utter inability to understand the reports or to reconcile them with my ideas and knowledge of the country. I am free to say that but very few of those that have appeared, thus far, have been borne out or confirmed by facts. There are, it is true, some facts published, but it would puzzle a more astute observer than I am to extricate them from the mass of confusion which usually surrounds them—especially is this the case with telegraphic dispatches from New-Orleans. The reports from Pursers of steamers are not always true, although it is no doubt the intention of those officers to give only what is.

I am inclined to doubt the truth of the report of the defeat and death of General CORONADO at Tepic, for the reason that the paragraph which contains that item contains also many absurd and inconsistent statements. Gen. CORONADO, who is represented as having been killed, with 400 of his men, at Tepic, is in the same paragraph made to appear as the principal official in Mazatlan. The former place is in Jalisco, and the latter in Sinaloa—one under CONZANO, and the other under Gov. VEGA. So, it would appear that while he was fighting in Tepic, (or, perhaps, dead,) he is at the same moment imprisoning the British Consul at Mazatlan for smuggling and cheating the Government. Again, it is stated that the Captain of the British ship Amethyst blockaded the port, and had seized two Mexican ships loaded with cotton. This, I know, cannot be true, for the very best reason in the world—the Mexicans do not own a ship on the coast; the largest vessel registered at any of the ports does not exceed 150 tons. Another, and the most absurd statement included in the paragraph, is the announcement that the Liberal party had refused to recognize the American Consul. This has not the shadow of foundation. Mr. COWAN, who was appointed some time since, was received by the authorities in May last with great cordiality and friendship, and continued up to the time of his departure for Washington to receive, at the hands of the officials as well as the citizens, every attention which kindness or courtesy could dictate; and I am assured that the gentleman whom he named to fill his place during his absence, was likewise promptly and cordially recognized by Gov. VEGA.

The task of correcting the reports concerning Mexico, which appear daily, is more than equal to the power or capacity of any human being—the man must be crazed who would attempt it. It is refreshing amidst this chaos to observe as occasional ray of light upon the affairs of the Northwest Coast. I was pleased to notice some remarks this morning—though some might have reasonably and justly censured Capt. POZZAS, of the St. Marys, for his course at Guaymas, in forcing upon the authorities the recognition of an obnoxious person who had not the so-motest shadow of legal right to sustain him. Capt. POZZAS has the right, with the consent of the authorities, to appoint, temporarily, a Consul, but he has no law or precedent to justify him in forcing them at the cannon's mouth, to receive a representative from a foreign Government. The writer of this was in Guaymas in July last, and can, therefore, assert with some degree of truth, that Mr. ALDEN had no authority from the United States Government to act as Consul. He was merely appointed, as you have stated, by word of mouth. Judge ROSS, himself, was not recognized when he made the appointment, and had not, therefore, the power to confer any such honor upon Mr. ALDEN.

The authorities, I am informed, would have received Mr. ALDEN, had he possessed the proper documents—and now that he is thus thrust upon them, of what service can he be to his countrymen, or what influence can he exercise with the officials? None, whatever, unless Capt. POZZAS will remain in port with his vessel.

The imprisonment of the British Consul, at Mazatlan, is a very mild punishment for such crimes as have been committed under his authority for many years past. Were the facts known to the world the world would justify a more severe punishment. Any other countryman, but the poor, depressed and cowed Mexican, would hang every British Consul in the country upon half the provocation.

The Astronomical Observatory in Central Park.

We scarcely realize in the present day the obligations we are all under to astronomy for delivering us from the wanderings of ignorance and superstition, respecting the heavenly bodies, with which men were tormented in earlier times.

Railway of Canada—A Year Since—Progress of the Trade of the West—Early History of the Railway—Its Difficulties—Its Success—Its Position, the Length of Time it Was Coming to Fruition—Its Connections—Future Connections to be Hereafter—Experimental Jogging of the Government of the New-York Times:

TORONTO, C. W., Saturday, Nov. 21, 1857.

The opening, about this time, of one more Railway in Canada, and the completion, under the Board of Directors, which [illegible] of the Grand Trunk Railway, is an occasion worthy of special notice, even in this age of railways and other great engineering works. The Grand Trunk Railway of Canada was devised and built for the express purpose of laying a giant grasp not only on Canadian commerce, but on the trade of the Western States, and of many things not merely [illegible] that in the bulky and weighty produce of the West. It was contemplated, too, that this iron road should be that of all the passenger traffic between the West and Europe—that a Mr. [illegible] from St. Louis, or Milwaukee, or Chicago, pay a New-Orleans merchant, too, [illegible] to transport the Province of Canada on his way to England. It was intended, too, by the first share of the capital was subscribed for, that letters from the West for Europe should pass through the New-York [illegible] Canada. But while the Provincial Government, year after year, until now the managers are at last [illegible] the difficulty of the struggle which will [illegible] their first and cherished hopes will [illegible] all their projects will be [illegible] the formidable difficulties they have [illegible] to overcome; whether the Canadian [illegible] and the English stockholders will [illegible], or whether the loss to [illegible] point of view, will be heavy, the Grand Trunk Railway, like many other [illegible], cannot be partially successful; it [illegible] be a failure.

The Americans as well as the Canadian public [illegible] look upon the events of the next year or two [illegible] for their interests are heavily involved. Already, we see, representations have been made to the Cabinet at Washington as to the [illegible] facts by the agents of the Grand Trunk to the Western States to secure through [illegible]. Already the people of [illegible], and those living by the New-York canals [illegible] are, and are hoping to draw the attention [illegible] to the working of the Reciprocity [illegible]. Perhaps the United States Government [illegible] Grand Trunk Railway and [illegible] England to secure the assent of the [illegible] to the requisite arrangements [illegible]. Always Canada, from being, commercially speaking, a dependent of the United States, is taking a position by the side of the great Republic—able to act as well as ask favors.

[illegible] to review, here, the controversy [illegible] who first broached the idea of building the Grand Trunk Railway, as a through line for the trade of the great West, or as to the names of [illegible], or REEVES or YOUNG—who first proposed to span the great St. Lawrence with a permanent bridge. The first [illegible] reading the visions of theorists were taken by the WILKES and REEVES of the different [illegible] between Kingston and Montreal. A pamphlet, written by Mr. T. C. KEEFER, called "The Philosophy of Railroads," had been published, and, while reading the times, had had an extraordinary sale, and foreshadowed the whole Province of Canada into enthusiasm. It was the popular opinion in favor of railroads, and forced the Legislature to offer liberal inducements to meet at Coburg, where to build a railway from Toronto to Kingston [illegible] MR. KEEFER, then an unknown engineer, now a man of celebrity, was appointed to survey the route.

These preparatory steps were easy enough, but the raising of the money to pay for them and to carry on the undertaken work, was a more serious matter. After much consultation, the Western had Reeves determined to ask the Government of the Province to lend them its credit, if not its money. Mr. HINCKS, now his Excellency the Governor of Jamaica, was then Prime Minister, and at first refused the request of the [illegible]. Their regulator was remonstrated with. The whole country cries aloud for railroads, and if you grant not the necessary aid to build them, we must cast you to Perdition. We have sent to power as who will. The opinion of Mr. HINCKS grew. Shortly before, Parliament had assembled, and, as yet, leading politicians were absent, and scarcely there to principles. Mr. HINCKS had been so much absorbed in theorizing as to be, as he and like other Ministers, was in the position of a [illegible] during the Stamp Act, but he [illegible] escape from this wearisome wrangling. [illegible] which took the country by storm, and had books of friends [illegible] the Assay Master MAGNAN, as exclaim—"By jingo, if these people are railroads," Mr. HINCKS found the Government [illegible] to Municipalities by a bill which passed the Parliament almost unanimously. Charters for railroads and for other public works were granted by the Legislature. A debt of $18,000,000, due by the Province to Municipalities, and of an immense amount [illegible] for Municipalities, is one of the results. A few prominent men, and the Public Press, had the honor, if not of the idea, yet of the bold [illegible] and the [illegible] of the enterprise.

Although the enterprise has the huge proportions above given, all is not yet done that will be done. A line of 180 miles, to connect its eastern end with the New-Brunswick roads, will assuredly be built ere long. People are talking of an air line across the State of Michigan. Wharves will be built here at Quebec by companies nominally independent of the Grand Trunk people, but really controlled by them. The Great Eastern, of which the shareholders of the Grand Trunk have almost absolute control, will be run to Portland and Quebec. The Canadian steamers now plying in connection with the railway will have every additional facility possible afforded them; more lighthouses built in the gulf, &c., &c. Lines of propellers will be encouraged to run from Chicago to Sarnia.

After all, as above hinted at, the construction of this line is only an experiment. It remains to be seen whether so gigantic an enterprise can be directed by one Board, even with the assistance of the telegraph and locomotive; and, next, it has to be proved that a railroad can pay which runs for the greater part of its length beside a magnificent water channel, and for most of the rest beside a parallel railway. The New-York Central and Hudson River railroads have not yet demonstrated this, for the Erie Canal is but of limited capacity, and the business men of New-York City, who have not a moment of leisure time, have kept up the passenger traffic on both the lines. Here, on the contrary, pleasure travel is always combined with business pursuits, and the St. Lawrence scenery draws its thousands on board the steamers, from the railway. It is of little use to argue the point; the disciples of one school are as firm in their opinions as those of the other. A few short years will suffice to decide between them.

A RIOTOUS AFFAIR AT CANANDAIGUA.—The Rochester Union, Nov. 25, reports that the village of Canandaigua was thrown into commotion on Wednesday evening by the sudden exposition of a case in which parties well known there were concerned. The facts are as follows: WARREN H. PERRIN, WILLIAM WARNER, and the wife of the latter, PERRIN is a bachelor of 60, a brother of OLIVER H. PERRIN, an insurance agent, recently, and an old resident of Canandaigua. WARNER is a stone-cutter, under 40 years of age, in moderate circumstances, of good standing, and has a family consisting of a wife and five children. Mr. WARNER met PERRIN (not leaving his wife's apartment, and at once remonstrated. PERRIN was much the heavier man of the two, but the stonecutter made up in his knowledge of pounding what he lacked in weight. PERRIN was thrown down and beaten seriously about the head and face. Meanwhile the wife looked on terror-stricken, and the cries of PERRIN brought to the spot from the shanties above the daughter and son of Mr. WARNER, who were much terrified by the proceeding—to them so strange. Mr. WARNER called to his son to bring him the carving knife, that he might dispatch PERRIN upon the spot. The boy refused to comply, and assured his father that he would be hung if he killed the man. Presently PERRIN escaped from WARNER, and ran into the road, but he was overtaken, and again beaten. By this time the alarm had spread in the neighborhood, and people assisted to the spot to see what was going on, among the number Oliver Hall, who took PERRIN into custody, and put an end to the conflict.

IMPORTANT MAIL CONVENTION.—A period approaches of extreme importance, both to the United States and the Brazils, was perfected this morning, and the contract of the steamships of the United States Mail Line, New-York to Rio Janeiro, Pernambuco, and Rio Grande, was executed by Postmaster-General Holt to Junius S. Morgan, of New-York. A mail subsidy has for long distinct its Rio has been filled and the already immense trade—done, rather, for—between the two countries will soon [illegible] magnitude.

A list of efficient steamers will be on hand at an early day, and the business will be a production of the period of [illegible] rate of [illegible] fully one half.

We learn that a contract will shortly be concluded between the Brazilian Government and the United States for the conveyance of the mails from Rio to New-York.—Washington Union, Nov. 25.

The Merced Mining Case in Court—Senator Broderick's Alleged Murderers Arraigned—Murders—Miscellaneous.

[Special Correspondence of The New-York Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, Nov. 14, 1857.

A case of great importance, and involving principles affecting more or less the entire mining interest of the State, is now being argued before the California Supreme Court. It is the case of Col. J. C. FREMONT vs. The Merced Mining Company. The leading points made by Mr. ISRAEL, who appears for the Merced Company, are:

"1. The precious metals, and of consequence gold and silver mines, belong to the sovereignty, and do not pass with the ownership of the land. 2. A patent from the United States is not conclusive as to title, but may be set aside for fraud. 3. FREMONT's patent was obtained upon a fraudulent survey, which did not embrace the lands assigned to him by the confirmation of the Alvarado grant. 4. The Merced Company hold by a title in the nature of presumptive—that is, by occupation prior to the fraudulent survey upon which FREMONT obtained the patent in 1855."

The life of the late Senator EMMERIT was an almost constant occasion of strife, and now that he is no more, the little property which he left behind seems likely to become a bone of contention and subject of litigation. I alluded, in a recent letter, to the application of certain parties for letters testamentary upon the estate of deceased, said applicants claiming to be nearly related to Mr. BRODERICK. Affidavits have since been presented by LEWIS P. SAGE, Public Administrator, and GARRETT W. GERRY, to the effect that Senator BRODERICK has no living relatives, and contradicting the affidavit of LEVI BROWN, who claimed to be his second cousin. GARRETT W. GERRY proved that he and Mr. BRODERICK were boys and played together; that their residences were in the same block in New-York City; that affiant was intimate in the family of Mrs. BRODERICK, the mother of the Senator, from the year 1830 until her death in 1841 or 1842; that for about one year prior to her death she boarded in a house adjoining the one in which affiant lived; that affiant was in her house more or less every day from 1830 till her death; that RICHARD BRODERICK, brother of the Senator, died in 1846, at the age of thirteen years; that affiant never KNEW, saw or heard of the woman calling herself Mrs. LEVI BROWN, or of her living in Mrs. BRODERICK's house until since the death of Senator BRODERICK; that if she had lived in Mrs. BRODERICK's house affiant should have certainly known it; that when RICHARD BRODERICK died, Dr. C. BRODERICK told affiant that he had not a relative left in the world; that affiant has been an intimate and most confidential friend of deceased during his whole life, and has repeatedly heard deceased declare that he had not a relative in the world; and that affiant does not think Senator BRODERICK had a friend in the State or anywhere more intimate, if as much so, as this affiant.

On Oct. 26, THOMAS ELDER and JOHN JENKINS, convicted some time ago of murder—the first of a man named MYERS, and the second of a man named MCCARTY—were hanged at Quincy, Plumas County. These were the first instances in which men have been lawfully executed in Plumas County for the crime of murder. ELDER was a native of Scotland. About eight years ago he emigrated to Michigan, where he resided till four years since, when he came to California. He was about 28 years old. JENKINS was born in Tennessee, and lived afterwards in Kentucky. He came to California some five or six years ago. He was about 27 years of age. They both, on the scaffold, admitted the justness of their sentence. They each made short addresses to the spectators, in which they begged them to take warning from their fate. The last words of ELDER were, "Good by, gentlemen—take warning!" They appeared to die repentant, and behaved with firmness to the end. They did not appear to suffer much.

F. ALTON WHEELOCK, formerly of New-York, recently convicted of forging a small check, and who, not long since attempted to hang himself in his cell, has been sentenced to the State Prison for one year.

ELIZA A. HARRAMAN has instituted suit for a divorce from her husband, DANIEL H. HARRAMAN, chiefly upon the ground of extreme cruelty. The parties are from New-York.

EDWARD D. SAGER, whose application for divorce from his wife, MARY ANN SAGER, was denied, last Saturday week, has since tried to obtain a new trial, but his motion was denied.

The hour of the departure of the Butterfield Overland Mail, from this city, has been changed back again to 10 o'clock M. The mail service by this route is steadily increasing. The last mail carried nearly 2,000 letters.

The Governor of the State has appointed Thursday, the 26th November, as a day of thanksgiving.

An aged Frenchman named MURAT, said to be a relative of the King of Naples, has been convicted of larceny in this City, and sentenced to a term of imprisonment in this County Jail.

THE OVERLAND MAIL AT ST. LOUIS—MOVEMENT HOSTILE TO THE CHINESE—MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, Nov. 28.

The Overland Mail has arrived here, with San Francisco dates to the 7th inst.

The Governor has ordered an election for the 19th of December to fill a vacancy in the State Senate. This will be a very exciting election, as it involves the question whether the Legislature should grant the right to construct bulkheads to protect the harbor of San Francisco—a project involving an expenditure of five millions of dollars.

An Association has been formed at San Francisco, with the intention of embracing the whole State, for the purpose of excluding the Chinese, from all employment, excepting the lowest kind.

Business was stagnant, and there had been no sales of any consequence since the departure of the steamer of the 5th inst.

A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Monday, 7th inst., 6 P. M., overtook the mail at Gilroy. It says trade opened fairly for the first of the week. Light sales of choice Bacon were made from the ship Daring at 12½c.@13c. June Butter sold at 35c., but the market was quiet and the purchases limited.

LAW REPORTS.

Case of the Record Commission.

The People, ex rel. McSpedon and Baker, vs. The Board of Supervisors of New-York.—Justice INGRAHAM has filed his opinion denying the motion to quash the return of the defendants to the alternative mandamus sued out to compel them to pay for printing the records. The decision of the case was mentioned in yesterday's TIMES.

After considering some of the objections to the return, which objections his Honor considered well taken, he proceeded to say:

There are other objections to this return which would be worthy of examination, were it not that for other reasons the relators are not entitled to the peremptory mandamus, and even if the return should be quashed, the motion for such writ should not be granted.

The alternative writ shows that only a portion of the amount claimed to be raised by tax is due to the relators, and shows that the whole amount is required in order to perform and complete the contract. It is clear, therefore, that at present, the relators have no right to this fund except the portion due for work already performed. They may never complete the contract, and never be entitled to any further payment. The rule is, I think, well settled, that a relator cannot have a peremptory writ, unless he shows a clear legal right to what he sues for. (People ex. Supervisors, &c., 4 Kernan, 563; People ex. Canal Board, 12 Barb. 444 are cases so holding.)

It will not be pretended that these relators at the present time have any such claim. Whether they will have or not at a future period any such claim is uncertain. It may not be required during the year, and in case of a non-performance on their part might not be needed at any time on this contract.

Whether they could apply for a mandamus as to the amount now due them is a question not necessary to the decision of this motion. It is enough that they are not entitled to what is asked for in the writ. So hold otherwise, would be to sanction the principle that any contractor with the City Government might before his contract is completed, insist that the amount contemplated to be expended under his contract should be raised by tax, because it was possible he might receive it during the coming year.

It may not be a right to such a writ it must be the Commissioners who have entered into the contract and who will receive the moneys for payment.

It may be said that a part of this sum is now due to the relators. That however does not relieve the difficulty. If the writ demands too much, there must be judgment for the respondents. The peremptory writ must follow the alternative mandamus, and there cannot be judgment for the relators for part and for the respondents for the other part. (People ex. Supervisors of Duchess, 1 Hill, 50.) In the case from Barb. and Crewe., 444, no objection appears to have been made on this point.

As the return is defective, I think it proper to refuse costs to either party on this motion. Motion denied, without costs.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Two days later advices from the Pacific have been brought overland to St. Louis. Business at San Francisco remained without material improvement. The engrossing topic of talk was the approaching election of a State Senator, for which Gov. Weller had issued his writ. The long-vexed question of the bulkheads on the San Francisco water-line is understood to be involved in this canvass, and hence the prevalent interest. The old war against the Chinese threatened to be revived, with augmented animosity. An association, designed to exclude them from all save menial employments, had been formed at San Francisco, and was designed to embrace the entire State.

The [illegible] arrival from Havana of the Empire City at this port, of the Mosses Taylor at New-Orleans, and of the Isabel at Charleston, furnishes later news from Cuba to the 26th inst. The ceremonies attending the reception and inauguration of Gen. Serrano, the new Captain-General, were performed on the 24th with unparalleled splendor.

Troops are rapidly concentrating in Charlestown, preparatory to any attempts which may be made upon Gov. Brown, from his rapidly approaching execution. In true revolutionary style churches have been turned into barracks, and the people have thrown open their houses to the brave defenders of their hearthstones. A town which was originally intended to accommodate hardly a thousand inhabitants, can not receive an acquisition of seven hundred militia without making preparations accordingly. Gov. Wise continues to assert that these preparations are not made because of groundless fears. His emissaries who have been scattered through Pennsylvania and Ohio, have sent him what they consider to be reliable information concerning large bodies of men who are [illegible] to the rescue. Meanwhile, here and there through the Southern States, vagrants, peddlers and agents, of all kinds, are regarded suspiciously and closely watched.

The [illegible] contract for transporting the United States mails between New-York and Rio de Janeiro, was executed at the Post Office Department yesterday. Almost simultaneously news reached the Brazilian legation of the ratification of a grant by the Imperial Government of Brazil to Mr. Cornelius, of a monopoly of the line for ten years, with a handsome subsidy for each round trip. The vessels to touch at Bahia, Pernambuco and St. Thomas. Of the West Indian postage, under the American engagement, the contractor receives the whole amount.

The Board of Supervisors, yesterday, adopted a resolution authorizing the Police Commissioners to employ 400 special policemen, at $2 a day, to keep order at the approaching election, and directing the members of the old Municipal Police force should be so employed as far as practicable. A communication was received from the Comptroller transmitting detailed estimates of the receipts and expenditures of the County Government for the year 1860, and it was directed that 500 copies be printed. A resolution was adopted authorizing the [illegible] with the investigation of the affairs of the Commissioners of Records to send [illegible] and papers. The Committee on Annual Taxes reported that a return had been made to the mandamus issued by the Supreme Court at the suit of McSkimon & Baxter, requiring the Board to show cause why it should not raise by tax $[illegible] for the Commissioners of Records, objecting to the granting thereof, and that the mandamus had been denied. It was directed that 500 copies of the report and the legal documents accompanying it be printed, and that A. R. Lawrence, Jr., who managed the case for the Board, be paid $500 [illegible] fee. A communication was transmitted from the Board of Aldermen, signed by the Special Committee appointed by the Brooklyn Common Council to negotiate with the authorities of this City, for the abrogation of the terms of sale so as to reduce the rates of ferriage charged in 1853 and 1854, or to secure to the City of Brooklyn these ferry franchises. The Committee calls attention to the resolution under which it acts, and urges the action of the Corporation of New-York. The Aldermen appointed a Special Committee to confer with the Brooklyn delegation, transacted some routine business, and adjourned to Thursday. In the Board of Councilmen a resolution in favor of [illegible] Assistant Clerks for extra services to Committees, was laid over. never think of inviting yourself about publishing any more. Now, here, Mr. Wood, suppose, if chosen, to induce a Republican Legislature at Albany first to create the imperial crown for the Mayor of New-York, and then to ask him to wear it, we are not at present informed. From this part of our little Caesar's programme the veil has not yet been lifted. But we may well spare all inquiry on this head. Mr. Wood's expectation that he can compel a modification of our City Charter by the mere weight of his dreadful presence in the Mayor's office of New-York, absurd as it is, is on the whole the least absurd and by far the most modest of all his expectations. The Herald's reasons for supporting this indescribable candidate are futile enough. The Tribune's motives for doing him guerrilla service are sufficiently inconsistent with all true patriotism and common sense. But none of his friends or favorers have put Mr. Wood into so odious and ridiculous a light as he has done himself. His avowal that if he were chosen Mayor he would undertake not only to "manage the affairs of the poor," and to "look after the rich" of our City, but also to "maintain the authority" of the Union, reveals the ambitious of this hair-brained and unprincipled schemer, is an aspect at once so ludicrous and so audacious, that every sensible man in New-York ought to feel himself personally responsible for putting an end to the insolent and preposterous farce. The apathy of our busy citizens, and the shamelessness of party passion, have brought us to this. These alone have made it possible for a defeated and scandalous politician to stand up before us all, and claim for himself that he is the only man in New-York who can save us from anarchy, and that he will undertake the business if we will agree to make him absolute lord and master of us and of our City. If anything can sting us into doing our municipal duty, this last escapade of Mr. Fernando Wood will certainly do the work.

A Chapter from Experience.

Possibly some of our readers may remember the election for Mayor in 1856. It presented features so much like those of the present contest, that a recurrence to them may not be without interest and value.

Fernando Wood was then Mayor, and was the regular candidate of the Democratic Party for reelection. His administration of the office, however, had excited very general dissatisfaction, even in the ranks of his own party, and James S. Libby had been put in nomination as an independent Democrat against him. His friends were confident, not perhaps of his success, but of his ability to draw off a very large vote from the regular nominee, and so, perhaps, secure his defeat. There was, also, a very strong feeling in favor of reform in the City Government, and James R. Whiting, Esq., was nominated to represent it.

Here were two Democratic candidates in the field against Wood—and this fact naturally stimulated both the Republicans and Americans to believe that their candidates could be elected by a plurality vote. It seemed certain that the Democratic vote would be so nearly divided as to give an easy victory to the strongest of these two parties. A. J. Bleecker was accordingly nominated by the Republicans, and Isaac O. Barker by the Americans. Strenuous efforts were made to effect a union of the parties opposed to Wood—at least of two of them—but in vain. Each felt so secure in its reliance upon the division in the Democratic ranks, that no proposition for union could receive a moment's attention. The Republicans talked quite as confidently of electing Bleecker as the Tribune now does of electing Opdyke; while Mr. Whiting was quite as sure of his own success as Mr. Ogden now is of his election.

The vote for the several candidates resulted thus:

Fernando Wood, Dem.	34,568
Isaac O. Barker, American	25,182
Anthony J. Bleecker, Rep.	9,671
James S. Libby, Ind. Dem.	4,694
James R. Whiting, Reform	3,626
Total vote	77,741

The confidence of the several parties in their own strength, and their reliance on Democratic divisions, thus led to the election of Fernando Wood. At the next election the lesson was not lost. All the opponents of Wood united against him, and the result stood thus:

Daniel F. Tiemann	43,198
Fernando Wood	40,908
Total vote	84,106

Of this aggregate vote at least 10,000 were illegal—two-thirds of them being cast for Wood, who had entire control of the ballot-boxes. It was the union of his opponents alone which secured his defeat.

At the last State Election, this month, the vote showed the following as about the relative strength of the several parties:

Democratic	35,000
Republican	17,000
American	3,500

The Republicans profess to believe that the Democratic vote will be about equally divided between Wood and Havemeyer, and that they will thus stand a good chance of electing their candidate. Even if that vote should be thus divided, the Republicans must not only hold their ground but must increase their vote. There will doubtless be an increased aggregate vote of perhaps 10,000. On the Democratic side Wood will be very likely to get the benefit of it, inasmuch as the regular Democratic vote was mainly called out at the State election, while Wood's friends, having been thrown overboard at Syracuse, had no special interest in the canvass. It is quite certain, moreover, that from 1,500 to 2,500 of the thorough-going, out-and-out party Republicans will vote for Wood, in order to strengthen him for the Charleston Convention, in the hope thereby to divide and disturb the Democratic councils. Of the increase, therefore, Wood is likely to receive the largest share:—and if the Republicans are right in their assumption that the Democratic vote proper will be nearly equally divided, Wood will receive from 20,000 to 23,000 votes,—leaving Havemeyer from 17,000 to 20,000.

If this estimate is correct, what chance have the Republicans of defeating Wood—even if they desire it, as they profess to do? Their increase in voters will not equal the loss of votes cast for Wood. They will get no accessions from the Americans or the Whigs. And if, as they pretend, the contest is between Opdyke and Wood, the latter will certainly be elected.

Our own opinion is that the contest is between Havemeyer and Wood; and that every good citizen, in the Republican ranks or elsewhere, who regards his duty to the City as of higher obligation than his allegiance to party, and who deprecates the election of Wood as at once dishonorable and disastrous, owes it to himself and the public to vote for Mr. Havemeyer. He is a man of known ability and of tried integrity. He has had large experience in public affairs, and has for two terms given the City the example of a Mayor who did his duty faithfully and well. He is a man who will not be the tool of any party, nor do any party work for the public good, and not for the promotion of his personal ambition or his party schemes.

A Very Small Politician.

From the Tribune.

The Impartiality of The Times.—We are informed upon the most undoubted authority, that last night two citizens took to the Times office an article advancing the interests of Mr. Opdyke to the Mayoralty, and agreed upon the price for its publication as an advertisement. The article subsequently came to the notice of one of the editors, who, upon learning its purport, said that it could not be published for the sum agreed upon, but that if could for double the price. The gentlemen tendering the article, deeming this a piece of impudence, withdrew it. We leave comment upon the proceeding for our readers to make.

The Tribune must be hard pressed when it descends to such paltry complaints as this. At half-past one o'clock, on Sunday night, two gentlemen came with a political advertisement for the Times of next morning. They had been told the price by the night clerk, and offered their check in payment. The clerk declined to receive this, and referred them to the night manager—who told them the paper was just going to press—that twice the price offered would be no inducement to delay the issue—that he knew nothing of the value of their check, and that they must wait until the next day and see the Editor. They told him it was a political advertisement, such as the Times was publishing every day. He asked, in reply, if it was a part of the same series, and to be charged to the same parties,—as they were known to be responsible. The reply was "No." He then declined to receive it, and the parties repaired to the Tribune office with the story of their griefs.

The advertising columns of the Times are open to the Tribune's friends, to precisely the same extent and on precisely the same terms as to anybody else. They will oblige us, however, and consult their own comfort, by handing them in before 2 o'clock in the morning, and by bringing either the money or the name of some party known to be responsible. They must remember that we print some 10,000 more daily papers than the Tribune, and cannot afford, therefore, to keep our columns open until so late an hour as our neighbor.

We should like to know, moreover, why the Tribune speaks about "the neutrality of the Times" in this municipal contest. We are not neutral, and have never pretended to be so. We are for the election of Mr. Havemeyer, because we know, from experience, he will make an honest and efficient Mayor, and because we believe his success necessary to the defeat of Fernando Wood. In another column the Tribune speaks of the Times as "the organ of Tammany Hall." Why not stick to one slander, at least for one issue of the sheet?

Musical.

Academy of Music.—Mlle. Adelina Patti, our young and remarkable prima donna, who, in a single stride, has reached the sympathies of the entire musical public, will make her third appearance to-night, as Lucia, in the opera of "Lucia di Lammermoor." It is worth a long journey to hear a singer so fresh and perfect in this very delightful rôle. There will, we hope, be a fine attendance.

Concert.—Mr. C. Jerome Hopkins—a gentleman who has associated himself with native American music, in a way which should obtain for him the warmest sympathy of all musicians and amateurs—gives a concert, to-night, in the large Hall of Palace Garden. Mr. Hopkins has provided an attractive programme, and will be assisted by Miss Hattie Arden, Miss Harriet Wheelwright, Mr. Geo. Simpson, Mr. L. Schreiner, (cornet,) Mr. W. H. Curran, (piano,) Mr. John Jameson, (piano,) and a vocal quartette party.

French Theatre.—Mr. Sam Cowell, a comic singer of decided repute in England, made his first appearance here last night, and with success. Mr. Cowell is not a stranger to the American public, having been "brought up" in our midst. His best successes, however, have been made in London, where comic singing is at once a tradition and a profession. The pieces selected last night were good and intrinsically funny, but the uproarious element was lost owing to the fact that songs like the "Cork Leg," "Clean your Boots," "Lord Lovel," &c., are, although novelties here, not exactly adapted to our perception of fun. We may add, however, that Mr. Cowell gave them admirably. We are persuaded that it will be to the interest of the management to provide a different sort of programme. A drawing-room entertainment of a comic character, and aiming at pleasant ridicule of the trivialities of the moment, could not fail to be a success. For such an entertainment there is certainly no better singer here than Mr. Cowell.

Mr. S. D. Wells, the great pianist, and Dr. Guilmette were the artists who assisted Mr. Cowell. Mr. Wells played superbly, as he always does, and Dr. Guilmette was a refreshing oasis in a vocal desert. Mr. Hicks, from the London Academy of Music, played the accompaniments to Mr. Cowell's songs, and seems to understand the peculiarities of the singer. One of the latter's best efforts was a comic history of bad "Macbeth,"—a descriptive piece in the John Parry style, ending with an imitation of a celebrated tragedian, and a Scotch fling.

Mr. Cowell's entertainments will take place three times a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Obituary.

Hon. Z. Collins Lee, Judge of the Superior Court, died in Baltimore, on Saturday morning last, at 5 o'clock. His decease was the result of an attack of paralysis, with which he had been seized a few days previously. Judge Lee was born in Fairfax County, Virginia, Dec. 5, 1805. His father, Richard Bland Lee, was an intimate friend of President Madison. When quite young, Mr. Lee graduated at the University of Virginia, and immediately entered upon the study of the law, settling in Baltimore to practice his profession. Mr. Tyler, on the death of President Harrison, appointed Mr. Lee to the office of District-Attorney. President Taylor reappointed him to the same office in 1849, as a reward, probably, for the arduous and effective labors which he performed throughout the political campaign which terminated with the success of the party, the principles of which he so ably advocated. In November, 1855, he was elected Judge of the Superior Court for a term of ten years, eight of which he had served at the time of his death. Appropriate action was taken in all the Baltimore Courts on Saturday. A petition, unanimously signed by the members of the Bar, was forwarded to the Governor of Maryland, asking for the appointment of Hon. Robert Martin, now special Judge of the Superior Court, to the vacancy created by Judge Lee's death.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Baltimore, Monday, Nov. 28.

The funeral of Judge Lee took place to-day, and was largely attended.

From Havana.

THREE ARRIVALS YESTERDAY—INAUGURATION OF THE NEW CAPTAIN-GENERAL—MARKETS.

The steamship Empire City, Capt. John McGowan, having left New-Orleans at 10 A. M., on the 20th inst., arrived at Havana on the 23d, reached this port last evening. She brings from New-Orleans $94,400, in Mexican dollars, consigned to the Metropolitan Bank.

By telegraph, we learn that the Isabel, from Havana on the 25th, yesterday reached Charleston, and the Mosses Taylor, from Havana on the 26th, is reported at New-Orleans.

The steamship Northern Light, with the California mails, left Havana on the 25th, for New-York.

Sugar was firm, and prices had advanced a quarter real ⅌ arroba.

The stock at Havana and Matanzas was 12,000 boxes, against 50,000 last year.

Molasses was nominal.

Freights were depressed, owing to the unusual number of vessels in port.

Exchanges were advancing; Sterling was 13½@15 ⅌ cent. premium.

Drafts on New-York at sixty days were 2¼@2½ ⅌ cent. premium, and on New-Orleans, short time, 5@6 ⅌ cent. Mexican Dollars were at 2 ⅌ cent. premium.

An Accomplished Scoundrel.—Dr. W. M. M. Howard, of Bradford, Vt., recently sentenced to the State Prison for causing the death of a young lady while attempting to produce an abortion, proves to be a native of Ireland, whose real name is Daly. He has paid parties in Hartford $1,200 damages for malpractice; was once obliged to refund the Burlington Bank $1,000, out of which he had swindled it; and then was arrested for rape on a patient, the wife of a student in Dartmouth College. Her death permitted him to escape from punishment for this villainy; and he next succeeded in marrying the widow of a man who had died while under his care. After swindling her out of all her property, he left her to die broken hearted, and committed the crime for which he now suffers. At his house near Bradford, there died, last Summer, three young women in the course of a few weeks, who had sought his aid to hide their shame.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Democratic Preliminaries for the Organization of the House—Disposition from Kentucky—Forward Seats—The Brooklyn Hall Committee—A Noteworthy Correspondence—Member of Secretary Floyd—Resignation of Secretary Toucey.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Monday, Nov. 28.

The Democratic programme for the House organization in pretty definitely made up on a basis intended to unite the two great wings of the party. Bocock, of Virginia, is to be put forward for the Speakership, Allen for the Clerkship, and Bayne, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, for Printer. The scheme is a strong one, probably the strongest which the Democracy could have concocted. Bocock's name will command respect, at least, from all sides, and indicates a disposition to make head against the ultraisms of a certain conspicuous faction in the Old Dominion more bent on President-making than on saving the country.

The War Department is in possession of dispatches from Gen. Brown, brought by the Overland Staff, confirmatory of advices by telegraph. Gen. Brown had found the marauders in the United States steamer Massachusetts, at Port Townsend, and shall do as he will in the case, go beyond the limits of the United States. Nothing of importance has occurred since the date of Gen. Harney's report, of Oct. 20. All the Pacific cruisers, the Saratoga excepted, had returned to their usual anchorage. Commissioner Campbell, and Capt. Pickett, of the Ninth Infantry, had arrived at head-quarters.

Mr. J. D. Stevenson's contract for mail service between New-York and Rio Janeiro was signed to-day. Upon all letters from the West Indies, not otherwise paying sea-postage, the contractor is to receive the total amount collected. All other letters will pay two cents each. By a curious coincidence, dispatches were to-day received by the Brazilian legation announcing the ratification of Mr. Stevenson's contract with the Government of Brazil, in accordance with which he obtains a monopoly of the line for ten years, and eighteen thousand dollars each trip for the Brazilian mails. His vessels are to touch at Bahia, Pernambuco and St. Thomas.

Señor Mata, the Mexican resident Minister, failed to receive dispatches from Mexico by telegraph; but he credits the report of Gen. Degollado's defeat at Queretaro.

Secretary Floyd will remain during the Winter at the Soldiers' Home, in deference to the advice of his physicians, who counsel him to avoid excitement as far as may be practicable.

A biography of Hon. Isaac Toucey, Secretary of the Navy, prepared by a gentleman of Washington, will soon be given to the Press. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Monday, Nov. 28.

According to private advices, the United States steamer Wabash was to have left Genoa for Gibraltar on the 7th inst., and is expected to arrive in New-York about the 10th December.

Those members of Congress who are now here strongly object to the new arrangement for seating the members of the House.

Chief-Engineer Everett has been ordered to the sloop-of-war Iroquois.

Gen. Jesup is still, as he has been for several months past, incapacitated by sickness from attending to his public duties.

Prominent Considerations Submitted to the Public by the Friends of the Havemeyer Nomination.

☞ REGISTER! REGISTER! REGISTER! ☜

THE INSPECTORS OF REGISTRY SIT TO-DAY, FOR THE PURPOSE OF REGISTERING SUCH VOTERS AS DID NOT VOTE AT THE NOVEMBER ELECTION. ALL WHO DESIRE TO VOTE FOR WM. F. HAVEMEYER AND SAMUEL J. TILDEN, SHOULD SEE THAT THEY ARE REGISTERED THEMSELVES, AND THAT ALL THEIR FRIENDS ARE REGISTERED. THIS IS THE LAST DAY ON WHICH THE INSPECTORS SIT.

REPUBLICAN WIRE-PULLERS AND THE REPUBLICAN VOTE.

We see that those Republican politicians who favor the election of Woos, have been aroused during the past few days to a sense that their game must be more closely covered. For many days after West Washington Market and Albany had put forward Geo. Opdyke for Mayor and Solomon L. Hull for Counsel to the Corporation, the journalistic organ of the plotters confined itself to merely announcing the fact as items of news, while its editorial columns remained practically unconscious that any such candidates were in existence. In yesterday's paper we were therefore glad to see certain editorial allusions to Mr. Opdyke; but of Solomon L. Hull the Tribune apparently remains to this hour in blissful ignorance. And yet the fact is, that Opdyke is the candidate marked out for sacrifice by every politician of the Tribune school. He made himself obnoxious last year in the Legislature to the Albany and West Washington Market tribe of Republican wire-pullers, and they lately defeated him for the Senatorial nomination in his own district, where he was certain of election, only to kill him off more effectually in December by making him the wooden horse out of whose belly the corrupt Republicans in favor of Woos are to leap at the proper moment in this Mayoralty contest. These men know very well that the full Republican vote of the City, on a party line, does not exceed 20,000; and of this they also know—none better, for they are parties to the bargain—that the machine vote in the Republican ranks, amounting to 3,500 or 4,000, will be cast for Woos, as the man, in all points of view, most useful to the West Washington Market operators. Thus, at the outside, supposing that every independent and honest man in the habit of voting the Republican ticket should vote for George Opdyke, that gentleman's total vote could not exceed 16,000—just about enough drawn off from Havemeyer to give the needful aid to Woos! Can it be thought that a partisan paper so bold, able and closely-calculating as the Tribune can have embarked on this cause without full knowledge of what it is doing, and a sufficient motive for desiring to aid a man of Woos's antecedents? Has it not deliberately made up its mind to assist in again attempting to restore our City to the control of those defaulting and corrupt officials, organized bands of City plunderers, and evil men of every grade who surrounded Woos during his last terms—partly under a dim hope that this course may distract the Democracy at Charleston, and still more immediately under the promptings of those Republican wire-pullers who have now on foot certain well-known and often-branded schemes for illegally depleting the City Treasury of more than One Million of Dollars?

WHO IS SOLOMON L. HULL, OF BUFFALO?

What have the Buffalo papers to say of him?

As to Mr. Solomon L. Hull, nominated with Mr. Opdyke for Counsel to the Corporation, the Republican papers now at work for Woos, are still more mysteriously silent; and yet there is an undoubted design amongst them to have Mr. Hull elected and his colleague, Mr. Opdyke, defeated. The bargain with Woos runs that Gerrit C. Bronson shall be traded off in return for the Machine Republican support of Woos; and on the morning of election both the Mozart and Republican boxes—wherever they exist—will give out tickets with the compromise of Woos and Hull, as an indicement to the honest men of the Republican Party, not in the conspiracy, to take part in this disgraceful plot. Mr. Rufus F. Andrews, the American and Busted candidate, will withdraw in Mr. Hull's favor at the right time; and all the resources of Albany and West Washington Market, not exhausted in otherwise aiding Woos, will be devoted towards the election of this new and comparatively unknown man in our City, Mr. Solomon L. Hull. It is, therefore, fair to ask WHO IS THIS Mr. HULL, AND WHAT ARE HIS ANTECEDENTS? The Tribune, either not able to swallow him along with Woos, or from a design to mask this conspiracy more deeply, described him substantially, on the only occasion when it spoke of him at all, as a new Ward-politician in this City but little known outside Republican Head-quarters, and not favorably known even to the limited extent of his recognition! The legal profession feel outraged by the putting up of a man for the first legal office in the City, whose name has never been heard in our courts of law,—of whom they have no domestic experience, and of whom his native city, we believe, and the city of his residence up to within a year—Buffalo—still remains ominously silent. Mr. Hull, we learn, resided and practiced some kind of a profession in Buffalo until within the last sixteen or eighteen months. Will the Buffalo papers please let us know who he is—how he stood at the Bar there—what courts he practiced in, whether civil or criminal—what particular kind of action was he most famous for getting up and trying—in what estimate was he held by his fellow lawyers and society at large; and finally, what cause made him emigrate from amongst them to seek a new character and sphere of activity in this City, proverbially overthronged with lawyers? These are all important and legitimate questions, and the answers should be satisfactory before we act. The Corporation Counselship of New-York is second only in importance and the magnitude of interests which it involves to that of Attorney-General of the United States; we demand some account of Mr. Hull from those who have had opportunities of knowing him, before his nomination (made at Albany) can be sanctioned by our citizens and City Bar.

CITY TAXATION CONSIDERED.

When Woos alleges that City Taxation under his Mayoralty, was less in amount than it has been under that of Daniel F. Tiemann, we have already shown that he falsifies official figures; and we have proved that the apparent balance in his favor only arose from debts incurred by him and not paid during his term, but since included in the arrearages of 1858 and 1859—thus saddling the present City Administration with ILLEGAL BURDENS, ILLEGALLY INCURRED, FOR THE SOLE BENEFIT OF Mr. Woos'S BLUNDERHEADED AGENTS IN THE LAST MUNICIPAL CONTEST. We proved, as any man can see for himself, by an examination of the Tax Levies, that the cost of City Government in 1859 was less by more THAN ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS than it had been in the year 1857, that particular year to which Woos, in his daily hand-bill, appears so fond of referring. But when—dropping the question of mere amounts—we come to consider the two Administrations in their practical working, in the returns which they gave to the public for the amounts expended, how ruinous must the comparison prove to Woos's false pretensions of economy and honest government! We all know that the Street Department was utterly idle during the last year of Woos's term, no business being done in it except the FRAUDULENT ALTERATION OF CONTRACTS, AND THE ABSTRACTION FROM ITS PUBLIC RECORDS OF ALL SUCH PAPERS AS MIGHT BE LIKELY, IN OTHER HANDS, TO EXPOSE THE MACHINERY OF CORRUPTION; and yet the Street Department for the year 1857 COST THE CITY OVER $460,000 MORE (including the arrearages since paid) THAN IT HAS COST DURING THE PAST YEAR, when all its Bureaus have been in full employment, all the public needs faithfully served, all the buildings and piers neglected under Charles Devlin put in thorough repair, and full employment given, taking the average of the year, to more than SIX HUNDRED MEN! The millions of money expended under Woos produced little other activity, of which we have any trace, save that of loud talk for "PERMANENT" in illicit houses and on street-corners, pending the approach of each election; and the accumulation against the City of such ILLEGAL, BARELEGS AND FRAUDULENT CLAIMS as have since been brought to judgment under machinery for which Woos stands responsible, and for which GREATER OF HIS APPOINTEES HAVE SINCE BEEN INDICTED!

UNWORTHY SUGGESTIONS REBUKED.

It might be thought that the speech of James T. Brady, at Tammany Hall, would have silenced the Tribune's slander that this eminent and eloquent citizen felt aggrieved at the nomination of his old friend Mr. Samuel J. Tilden to the office of Corporation Counsel. It gives us pleasure to be able to state that no man, professional or otherwise, in this City takes a deeper or more hearty interest than does Mr. Brady in Mr. Tilden's success, or more keenly appreciates the importance of electing Mr. Tilden, as the right man to this office. Mr. Brady long since made up his mind to eschew public station and confine his exertions to the more lucrative and independent walks of a profession in which he stands without rival. Any office and all the honors he could wish were recently at his disposal, but he had determined not himself to be a candidate, and was rejoiced at the nomination of Messrs. Havemeyer and Tilden, whose course in public and private life has so eloquently indorsed. Mr. John K. Dwight stands, in this respect, on the same platform with Mr. Brady, and the assertions of both are now directed towards the success of the candidates named, with majorities worthy of the men and the cause of honest City Government, in behalf of which Messrs. Havemeyer and Tilden are now in the field.

IS THE CHARTER ELECTION A POLITICAL TEST?

Will each of our readers as conscientiously the balance of party preference, irrespective of men, in the Charter contest, to be decided this day week, first pause and ask themselves why the City election has been made separate from all other contests? why we have to vote in Ward, Town, Congressional, Senatorial, Assembly, Aldermanic, Civil Court, Sheriff, County and State districts, when Mayor, County and Sheriff have to be decided on party grounds? Was not this separation intended to secure a disagreeable judgment as to the financial probity and executive worth of the men to be voted for by our City in its corporate capacity, with the disturbement of eight millions of dollars annually? Into the election for State officers, Governor, Secretary of State, Senators and Members of the Legislature, a distinct and decided political element enters, inasmuch as the Governor may be called upon to issue or withhold his authority in fugitive slave cases, the Secretary of State to affix or refuse to affix the seal of the State to Congressional Registrations, and the members of the Legislature to take action on such matters as Personal Liberty bills, Registration and prohibitory laws and other subjects having a clear political aspect. But our Charter election has property none of these considerations, no political aspect to make it complex; it is an election by stockholders of officers to discharge a purely financial trust. To ensure this, it has been put apart FROM POLITICS, AND STANDS ALONE ON THE MERITS AND ABILITIES OF THE MEN ADVANCED FOR THE PLACES. Our City Treasury is a Bank of eight millions capital, and we are really to choose for it a President called Mayor, and a law adviser to be called Corporation Counsel. Reflect, then, Stockholders in our great City enterprise, will you elect to these respective offices Wm. F. Havemeyer and Samuel J. Tilden, feeling safe in their characters and past histories; or will you place your treasures at the mercy of a man like Woos, assisted, as he must be if successful, by this Buffalo legal immigrant, Mr. Hull, of whose antecedents, beyond the one experience nothing favorable seems to be known to any one? If you had votes in an Insurance Company, Wm. F. Havemeyer and Woos being the two foremost candidates for the directorship, would you dare hesitate as to whom you should vote for? Or ever think of casting away your vote on a third, fourth, fifth or sixth man kept in the field for the mere purpose of drawing AWAY STRENGTH FROM THE SIDE OF HAVEMEYER AND HONESTY?

TWO OF MR. GEORGE OPDYKE'S BILLS.

With regard to the only two legislative measures of any prominence which Mr. Opdyke either originated or was led to father during his brief course as a Member of Assembly,—we have previously referred to his impossible scheme of a "Bullion Bank," in which all Mr. Opdyke's friends were interested, and would now revive attention to his absurd and unjust proposal that all "Unclaimed deposits in our City Savings Banks" should be taken away from the custody of the original trustees in this City and deposited in the hands of the State Treasurer at Albany! Now, in the first place, this transfer could not legally be made; and if made, would have given the poor depositors a very remote chance of ever reclaiming their deposits. The State is largely in debt, and with but little prospect of any relief from its burdens. Mr. Opdyke's proposal was, in substance, that all deposits lying unclaimed in our Savings Banks beyond a certain time should be CONFISCATED TOWARDS PAYING THE STATE DEBT! Was this generous to the poor depositors, who may either have gone out West or to California, leaving these sums behind them as something to fall back upon should their new careers fail; or who may have accumulated a certain sum in a time of prosperity, which they have not been able to increase, and yet have managed, at all sacrifices, not to call, for while weary years of labor have rolled over their heads? WAS THIS JUSTICE TO THE POOR MAN OR CONSIDERATION FOR HIS HABITS OF THRIFT? To the State Treasury at Albany so poor that it must be swelled by sums abstracted from the last resources of the humblest and most economical classes in our City? Young men of the Republican Party, will you throw away the votes needed to elect Wm. F. Havemeyer on such a candidate as the originator of this scheme?

It contains all the various orders of architecture prevailing when the temple was erected, with every variety of variegated marble. The Weekly Average of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, Nov. 19, 1859, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of Nov. 12:

Increase in Loans	$27,472
Increase in Specie	311,447
Increase in Circulation	12,942
Increase in Undrawn Deposits	1,111,368

including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including, also, the Sub-Treasury settlement of Saturday, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	Nov. 19, 1859.	Nov. 12, 1859.	Nov. 13, 1858.
Capital	$97,734,608	$97,922,000	$98,323,300
Loans	125,299,696	121,422,163	121,520,638
Specie	27,157,721	26,851,224	19,743,572
Circulation	5,483,482	5,471,522	5,303,529
Net Deposits	108,583,238	97,424,032	95,912,349
Undrawn	19,560,304	23,281,672	23,230,607
Drawn	88,716,976	75,362,173	74,872,539
Sub-Treasury	6,786,788	5,877,869	5,088,307

The Specie line falls somewhat below $28,000,000, the figure anticipated in our weekly review this morning. The average, however, is inclusive of the $1,721,000 from California, which took hold into Bank to-day. The Discount average is quite steady, as anticipated, the turn, since the previous report, being slightly downward. The deposits fall off, of course, in proportion to the other two items added together. The new week opens with a good business in out-door Discounts, at 6@7 ⅌ cent. for very prime lists of 3@6 months' paper. Some lists of indorsed 6 months' exclusively bills done at 7 ⅌ cent. Sixty-day acceptances, very choice names, continue to go at 6 ⅌ cent, and temporary loans to the Stock Brokers range 5@6 ⅌ cent., same as last week. The Customs, to-day, amount to $183,000; other receipts into the Sub-Treasury, $139,000; disbursements, $150,000; balance this afternoon, $6,049,518.

The Exchange market for the Boston mail opened to-day at last week's quotations, and up to the close of 'Change hour, no large amount of business had been accomplished. London, 109⅝@110; and Paris, f.5.15@f.5.13¾.

The Stock Exchange reopened with the same speculative temper as on Saturday, and a large business was done at the early Board, prices for nearly all the Railway shares and for Erie Bonds being in advance of the closing figures of last week. The highest in New-York Central was 82⅞ on the printed report and 82⅞ outside the Board; Erie 10¼ with large sales; Galena 73⅝; Rock Island 66@66⅛; Michigan Guaranteed 20¼, Reading 40¼. But from these figures, with the exception of Reading, there was a partial decline of ⅛@¼ ⅌ cent. in the afternoon, the general market showing an unsettled tone. The very last quotation in New-York Central was 82⅞@82½ ⅌ cent., as against 82¼@⅜ on Saturday. The dealings in Pacific Mail shares showed the usual feverishness of the past week, and the same figure scarcely held good for two sales or two minutes at a time. Our last closing quotation for Saturday was 88½. The demand this morning opened strong at 89½@90 ⅌ cent., but before the Brokers left the Board-room, the stock was offered down to 86 ⅌ cent. on the rumor, no doubt, which was subsequently on the Street, that some hitch had occurred in the negotiations between the Company and the Vanderbilt party, referred to as still pending this morning. We have no reason to believe there is anything serious in this as between the principal negotiators concerned, but such rumors, perhaps we might say uncertainties, are not likely to influence the price of the stock until all the details of, and legal papers relating to, the transfer to the Vanderbilt Company are perfected and signed, sealed and delivered. At the afternoon Board, the price went up to 87¾, and subsequently fell off to 85¾, cash, and 85 ⅌ cent., seller 30 days. Panama shares advanced 1½ ⅌ cent., and closed with sales at 133½ ⅌ cent. In the State Stocks there was a free offering of Missouris, said to proceed from the Western Free Bankers, with whom Exchange on the East is again scarce. They closed 84¾ ⅌ cent. sales. Tennessees were also a fraction lower. Virginias steady. There was a renewed demand for the Bonds of the Erie Company. The Second Mortgage sold at 86, seller 60 days, in the forenoon, and at 90, cash, at the Second Board. The Thirds rose to 78½ ⅌ cent. The Fourths again sold at 53 ⅌ cent., and the Common Bonds of '75 at 35 ⅌ cent. After the large business in the shares at the early Board at 10¼, the price fell to 10 at the close of the day. Hudson shares steady, and Harlem Preferred ¼ ⅌ cent. up.

The Evening Post states that Mr. R. H. Haydock, Cashier of the Market Bank, has accepted the cashiership of the Fulton Bank, which was recently made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Wm. J. Lane. Mr. Thomas Monahan has been elected Vice-President.

Justice Grier, of the United States Circuit Court, in term for the Western District of Pennsylvania, made the following points in a recent charge to his Jury, in a Suit to recover the value of certain overdue Coupons from the City of Allegheny:

"Judge Grier charged the Jury, in substance, that this suit was brought on Coupons given for railroad subscriptions. The Supreme Court of the State has assumed the Constitutional validity of such subscriptions, and that question is not one now open for discussion.

"It is not for Courts to inquire whether the subscriptions were wise or unwise, but to enforce the law and maintain the inviolability of contracts. Whatever regret there might be at the amount of debt that had been imposed upon the community for railroads, it is too late now to set up objections that ought to have been made before the bonds were issued and had gone into the hands of innocent holders, who had advanced the money to carry on the work.

"The objections made in this case to a recovery were ably argued and overruled. A verdict was given for the plaintiffs for the amount of the Coupons that have been given, and interest on the Coupons from the time they were payable until the present time."

We noticed last week and took exception to the proposition of the President of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company to consolidate and reduce the tenor and rate of interest of the Funded Debt of the original links in that important line of road. By request from Mr. Thomson's agents in this City, we publish in another place his circular at length, with his own explanatory remarks thereon. It is, perhaps, proper to add that we were by no means singular in the view which we took of the substance or bearing of the proposition, either in the Press or among the creditors more immediately concerned.
